Prohibiting strip and non-functional grass - these are typically aesthetic areas between the sidewalk and road that can lead to excessive runoff of water onto sidewalks and roadways.

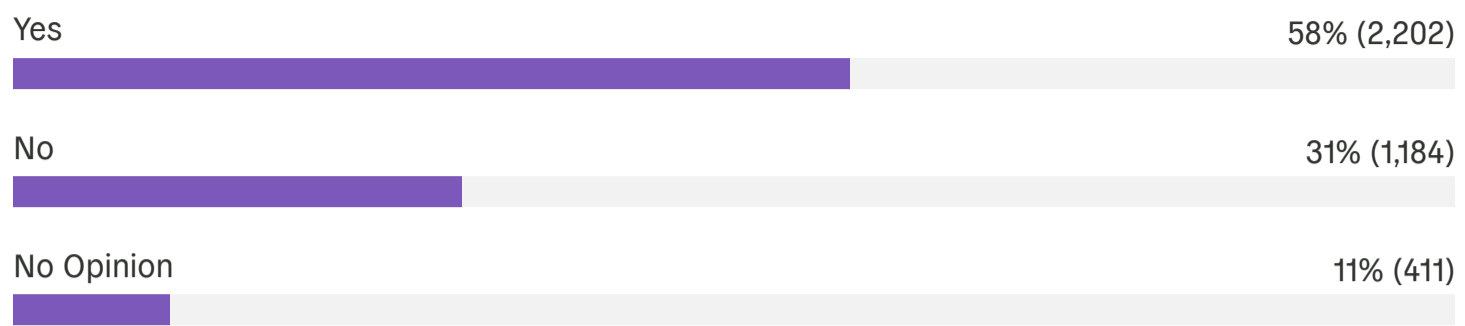

Prohibiting grass in front yard areas of new homes and developments

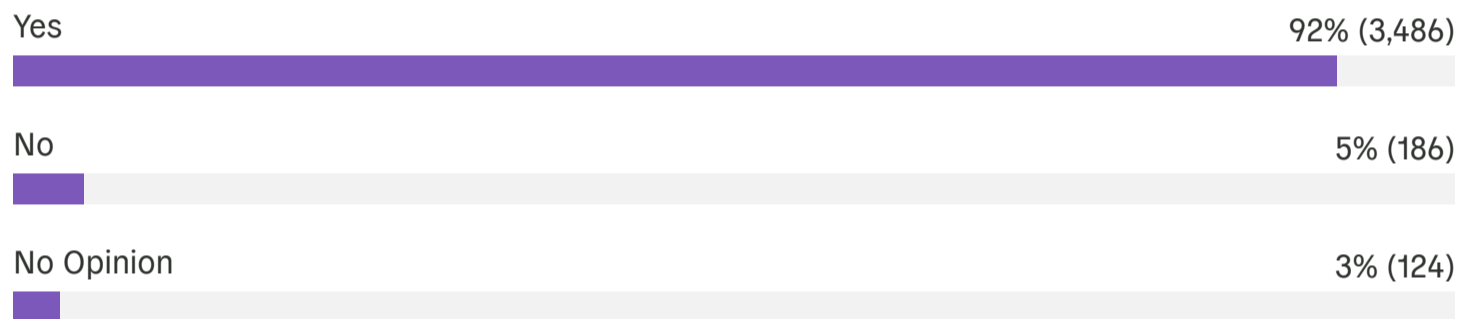

Restricting the size of new swimming pools

Prohibiting new water fountain features

Automatically enrolling new accounts in WaterSmart – an online tool that alerts customers to water leaks within their residence and helps catch leaks early to limit water loss

Restricting outdoor landscape watering times between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. (watering overnight instead of during the heat of the day limits water lost due to evaporation and allows plants to absorb more water – leading to water savings.)
